

DEDICATION

This edition of Key Contacts is dedicated to the heroic people living with HIV who are active participants in making life better for others who are infected; through their brave efforts they work to stop the spread of the epidemic.

Our deep gratitude to the men, women, and young people with HIV who:

- work in an HIV agency or clinic;
- volunteer as a board member for a nonprofit HIV agency;
- serve on a speakers' bureau to share their stories and assist in HIV prevention in churches, schools, and other community settings;
- serve on community planning and advisory groups to direct the spending of state and federal HIV funds;
- volunteer for clinical trials to assist with drug development;
- work as peer counselors for others with HIV;
- are active participants in their own health care; and
- volunteer as activists and advocates for the well-being of all HIV-infected persons.

Those culinary metaphors about "taking a lemon and making lemonade," or "taking broken eggs and making an omelette," have never been more apt. Please join us in thanking our brothers and sisters for their gifts of energy, creativity, optimism, and courage.

Key Contacts is a publication of SEATEC, the Southeast AIDS Training and Education Center, a U.S. Public Health Service-funded regional AIDS Education and Training Center. Since 1988, SEATEC has provided low-cost, high-quality HIV training and consultation for health care providers in the Southeast, and currently serves Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee. Contributors to all Key Contacts editions are listed on page 80.
